WAY TO GET NEW COUNT

Census Might Be Had With Little Expense to City

ONE BLOCK EACH

Capable Citizens Would Willingly Take Enumeration of a Block Without Charge

In the Monday issue of the Argus a suggestion was made of a method whereby a recount of Ann Arbor's population might be taken with little or no cost to the city. The method suggested is not one that is original with the Argus, but one said to be in use in Germany and one that works well. It simply proposes to have the census retaken by means of volunteer enumerators, one for each block in the city.

Since that suggestion was made, numerous prominent citizens have assured the Argus that they would gladly give the time to take the census in their respective blocks and that they would esteem it an honor to do this work without money or price. One prominent citizen who has had valuable experience in census taking said he would be glad to take the enumeration in several blocks and give his time. Unquestionably, should volunteers be asked for to do this work, there would be enough who would willingly volunteer for the work to enable the authorities to select well qualified persons in each block for the work. Such person, living in the block he would be expected to canvass, should be able to get the complete list of people living within his small territory. It should be required of him that he personally get in touch with all residents, if possible, and not take the say-so of some one for the correctness of whose data he could not vouch.

Then, as to the student population, what would be the objection to taking the registration of students at the University? Or, if there be anything impracticable in getting at this, the registration of students from Glen V. Mills' Student Directory? This last registration might not be complete in this that some students have entered the University since the directory was printed, but certainly the registration at the University would be complete. All students from without the city enrolled in the public schools could easily be gotten at in the same way. Either one of these methods would have to be resorted to to get at the student population, or the taking of a recount would have to be delayed until after college opens again and the student body are again among us.

Practically all Ann Arbor citizens feel that a great injustice has been done the city in the matter of the recent census and that not alone from the standpoint of local pride, but from the viewpoint of the city's progress and development in the future a correct count should be made. No one believes that Ann Arbor is practically stationary and stagnant, as it were. It is the general belief that it is having now, and has had during the past four years, a strong, healthful growth. For it to become fixed in the public mind that the city has attained its full development and that it has become stationary will tend to discourage people coming to the city and thus its interests will be injured.

Every material indication of growth is here. Post office receipts, assessed valuation of property, school enrollment, university registration, new residences connected up by the water company, increased business in all lines and new names upon the poll lists of voters, all indicate growth, while Fred Warner's political census alone indicates a practical standstill. The preponderance of evidence is against its correctness, therefore. There are the best of reasons for making another count.

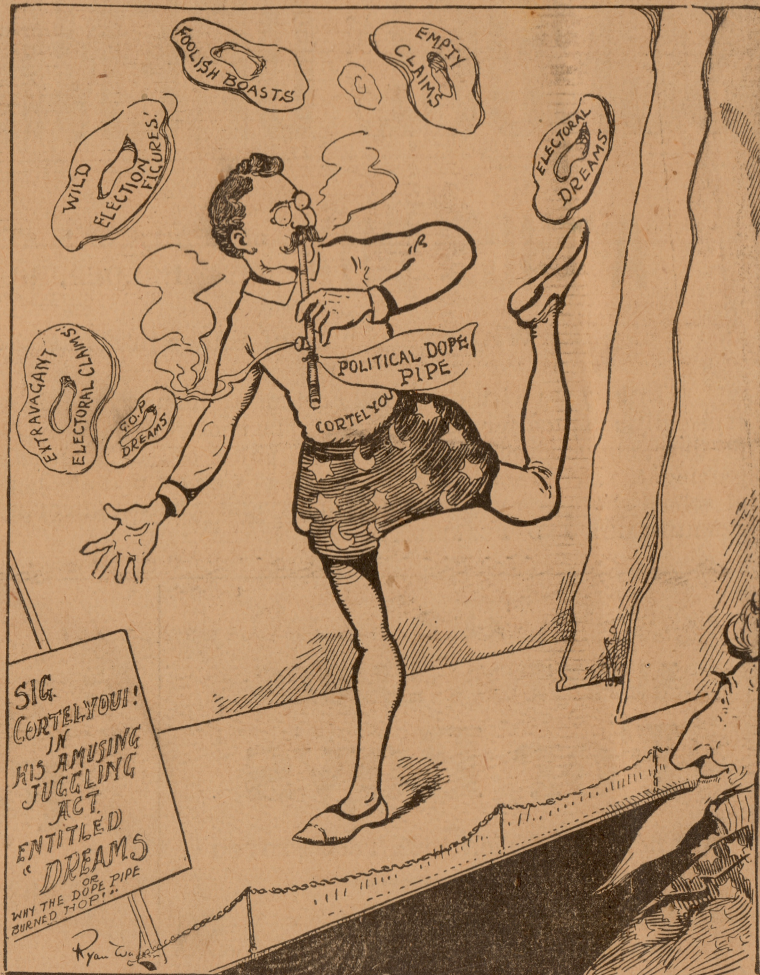

ENCROACHED ON PUBLIC PROPERTY

Wagner & Co., the furnishers, received a call from Chairman McIntyre of the board of public works, and from Officer Ball this morning. They are building a new store on State street and were making the show window project some 14 inches upon the sidewalk. The matter was reported to Officer Ball and he and Chairman McIntyre lost no time in notifying the firm that they must keep within their bounds.

The sash was completed and the workmen were just about to set the heavy pieces of plate glass when they received orders to tear down their work.

Don't be humbugged by outside parties, when you can save from 10 to 25 per cent by trading at the tea, coffee and spice house of M. M. Seabolt, 218 E. Huron street.

COL. JOHN P. KIRK FOR CONGRESS

Monroe, Mich., Aug. 31.—(Special to the Argus.)—John P. Kirk of Ypsilanti was nominated for congress by the democratic congressional convention amid great enthusiasm, receiving 88 votes. Every county came to the convention desirous of nominating Kirk. He was not present and his consent was reluctantly obtained. The office sought the man.

FATHER LOST CASE AGAINST HIS SON

Guilloz Sr. Brought Replevin Proceedings Against Guilloz Jr.

Because Latter Took Possession of Team and Wagon—Son Said He Was Father's Partner

Like many another father, John E. Guilloz, a baker of Detroit, did not realize when his son had passed from boyhood into manhood, and as a consequence he faced him in the justice court yesterday afternoon. The bakery firm was Guilloz & Son, yet when the son, Stanley J. Guilloz, took a team and harness and the bread-wagon as his share of the partnership possessions, the father objected and began replevin proceedings to get back the property.

The son came to Dexter with his bride a few weeks, and the father commenced suit before Justice Doty. The father stated on the stand that he had employed his son for several years and paid him on a basis of $9 per week, the sum varying considerably each week, according to the amount of business that had been done. He admitted to his son's attorney, Arthur Brown, that the son's name was on the firm sign, but said that it did not mean anything and had been put there simply to encourage the young man to take an interest in the business.

"It was put there to fool somebody, then," said Attorney Brown, "if it did not mean anything. It was either to fool the public or your son. Didn't people suppose that he was a member of the firm?"

At first Mr. Guilloz said he thought not, but then he concluded that he did not know one way or the other what was thought of the arrangement. At any rate the firm name did not imply partnership, he said, but was for the sole purpose of keeping the son interested in his work. The young man was merely his employee, he stated, and when he went from Detroit one morning with a team and the bread-wagon he was doing what he ought not to do, and what the courts should compel him to make right.

The son said that when the firm was formed several years ago he put in $75 in money and a horse, and that from the start he shared in the profits and losses of the business. He did not know anything of the encouragement properties of the sign, and always looked upon himself as joint owner of the property. He became dissatisfied with the amount of money he was making, and asked his father if a more satisfactory arrangement could not be made. The father would not listen to such a proposition, so Stanley quietly hooked up a team to the bread-wagon next morning and taking his young bride drove to Dexter, the home of his brother-in-law. He expects to reside in Dexter.

Justice Doty gave judgment in favor of the son, but with an order after leaving the court room the case was back with a statement from Stanley to the effect that in consideration of receiving $300 for his share in the business he released the judgment and would surrender the team and wagon. It is safe to say that the sign over the Guilloz bakery will no longer bear the termination " & Son."

"CAT HOLE" WAS ON FIRE FOR WEEK

Residents in the vicinity of the "Cat Hole" have been annoyed during the past week by a column of black smoke that has been steadily issuing from the bottom of the pit. In some way the mass of rubbish in the hole caught fire and it smoldered away, out of sight and out of reach of water. Officer Ball was notified, but there was nothing that could be done, as the fire had eaten under the mass of dirt and ashes that partially fill the hole, and the smoke issued from crevices. Officer Ball plugged up the crevices with dirt but the smoke continued to ascend in a thick cloud.

Gradually the nuisance became less and today it had practically ceased. The smoke was accompanied by a very disagreeable odor.

A FINE COURSE OF ENTERTAINMENTS

Y. M. C. A. Announces Its Star Course for Season

Course Tickets Are One Dollar—Probably Be Given in the Presbyterian Church

The Y. M. C. A. announces the following very fine star course of entertainments for this season:

1. Mr. Max Heinrich and his daughter Julia, song recital, Oct. 27.
2. The Famous Cleveland Ladies' Orchestra, Alfred Metzendorf, director, Nov. 18.

3. Dr. John Merritte Driver, lecture, Dec. 15.

4. The Byron Troubadors, Jan. 9.

5. The Arion Male Quartette and Elma R. Smith, reader, March 14.

Season tickets for the entire course will be sold for $1. Max Heinrich, who gives the opening number, has many friends and admirers in Ann Arbor who would be glad to pay the price of the course for his concert.

As the opera house will be closed this season, the Star Course will probably be given in the Presbyterian church.

MAY HAVE THEATRE

In Ann Arbor by First of Next Year

MAY FORM COMPANY

To Put Up $30,000 Building—Option Secured on S. Main St. Site and Others

There is a movement on which if it materializes may after all give a theatre to Ann Arbor. Efforts are being made to organize a company to erect an up-to-date $30,000 building on South Main street, and an option has been secured on a desirable location. The site is the Wagner property, now occupied by the Cook Gun Shop, and the option is held by Frank Case, manager of the Ypsilanti Opera House, and others.

It is said that ground will be broken within a month, and the house will be opened by January 1. The specifications of the building are in the hands of Architect H. W. Pipp, and he will have the plans completed within a few days. The enterprise it is said will be put through by a co-operative company, and the promoters state that they already have in sight buyers for a good share of the stock. A theatrical man of Detroit is said to have offered to lease the house for three years as soon as he can examine the completed plans.

If erected the theatre will be up to date in every particular. The height of the stage will be 63 feet, with 30-foot drops. The proscenium arch will be 28 feet in height and 37 feet in width. The curtains will be 37 feet. There will be two loges in the balcony, seating twelve each, and four proscenium boxes. The scenery will be fire proof, the curtain of asbestos and there will be an exit for every one hundred people, making 12 exits in all. The seating capacity of the auditorium will be 500, that of the balcony 400 and of the gallery 300. The aisles will be so arranged that no more than six persons will sit side by side, and the center aisle will be funnel shaped to avoid crowding near the entrance.

The building will be three stories high and in addition to the theatre will contain three or four stores and about the smoke issued from crevices, fires and theatre is expected to net a sufficient sum to pay a good rate of interest on the $30,000 invested.

The projectors say they have options on several pieces of property, although the South Main street site is looked upon by them with the greatest favor. One of the locations is on State street, the idea being that the patronage of the theatre in Ann Arbor comes from the University and that this fact might well be acknowledged in locating the house.

SHOULD HAVE CORRECT COUNT.

A gentleman formerly holding a position in the faculty of the University, speaking to the Argus of the matter of taking the census, related his experience while a student at the university, of Berlin. He says that the unit of territory was a block and that the census taker went to the various houses and left an enumeration blank with each head of a household. This blank was filled out by the head of the household, who was made responsible for reporting all within the house, students as well as members of the family and any boarders or roomers other than students who were domiciled there. Then in due time the enumerator called for these blanks and asked any questions necessary to get any facts called for but not already filled in by the head of the house. No compensation was attached to this service.

Unquestionably Ann Arbor could secure a recount of her people by this or some other similar method and without cost of any considerable amount to the city. There would be some slight expense for blanks, etc., and yet a full and complete count could be had at a merely nominal cost. But, if for any reason this method is not considered feasible, then any other which will give a correct enumeration of the people of the city without any considerable expense, would of course be equally satisfactory. But a correct count should be had by some means or other. The idea that Ann Arbor has ceased to grow and that she is at a practical standstill should not be allowed to become fixed in the mind of the people of the state generally, for if it does, it will tend to keep people from coming here to locate. If it were true that the city had ceased to grow, then there would be no help for it, but there is every material fact in the life and business of the city to show that the population is still smartly increasing and the city should have the credit for this that belongs to it.

The school election for members of the local board of education is near at hand and it is time that candidates for these important positions were being looked up. The members now on the board whose time expires this month ought not to be permitted to perpetuate themselves in these positions. If the people want them, of course they will make that fact manifest. But the Argus believes the retiring members of the board stand for a policy that is neither best for the schools nor in accordance with the wishes of the majority of the voters of the school district and that they ought to be retired therefore. But unless the people want the same policy perpetuated, they must see to it that a ticket is put in nomination that represents the wishes of the voters. If this be not done, it is entirely possible and even probable that the members whose terms are about to expire will perpetuate themselves on the board. This has been done in the past. Just why individuals should desire to continue themselves on this board from term to term is not clear to all, but such seems to be the fact. The annual school election will be held on Monday, September 12, and the time is none too long to look over the field and select three good citizens who are willing to give some of their valuable time for the good of our schools and who will consent to stand as candidates for those important positions.

It is evidently the purpose of certain dissatisfied republicans to nominate J. S. Stearns for governor on an independent ticket and they should have the privilege if they so desire and there are enough of them to warrant the cost. A call has been issued for a mass convention in Grand Rapids on Sept. 15th. It is the declared purpose of the men back of this movement to force the nomination on Mr. Stearns. These people concerned in the movement consider him still a republican, notwithstanding his statement to the members of the democratic convention that he would vote the democratic ticket both state and national. It is scarcely probable that the movement will assume any great proportions. But in any event it is not likely to cost Mr. Ferris anything.

Conductor Cowan Not Guilty.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31.—Wallace J. Cowan, the young conductor who has been on trial in the recorder's court charged with criminal carelessness in allowing his car to run into the Grand Trunk passenger train at Gratiot avenue and Dequindre street on Jan. 15 last, resulting in the death of Miss Gould and others, is free. After being out just eight minutes the jury found the defendant not guilty.

THE BURRO AS A GUIDE.

An Incident of a Journey Across the Great Mojave Desert.

The burro, veritable ship of the western desert, will live longer without water and scent it farther than any other known animal except the camel. As an example of the keen scent of the burro for water, Arthur J. Burdick relates, in "The Mystic Mid-Region," the experience of two prospectors named Peterson and Kelley. A few years ago they attempted to cross the Great Mojave desert on foot with a burro to carry their supplies.

In passing from oasis to oasis they lost their way, and the supply of water became exhausted. To be lost in the desert is a terrible thing, and anxiety, coupled with torturing thirst and the intense heat, drove Peterson insane. He left his companion and fled, shrieking, across the plain. Kelley picked the burro and went after Peterson to bring him back, but was unable to overtake him.

He returned to the trail to find that his burro had broken his tether and was moving across the desert at a leisurely pace. He followed, but the animal was so far in the lead and he was so exhausted from his efforts to overtake Peterson that he could not come up to the burro.

Night came upon him, and it soon became so dark that he could not distinguish the burro. He had to follow it by the footprints in the sand. When it became too dark to distinguish the footprints Kelley still staggered on in sheer desperation.

By and by his heart gave a great throb. Before him, outlined against the sky and seemingly suspended in the air, was a form which he knew to be either his burro or an apparition. He hurried forward, and, lo, standing upon a sharp rise of ground and facing him was his lost burro. The burro seemed to be awaiting him, for when he came up the animal turned and led the way down the incline to a spring of living water.

Kelley gave a shout of joy and plunged bodily into the spring. After he had soaked his parched skin and moistened his lips and throat he crawled out and went to his burro, which was browsing upon the green herbs growing about the place. Throwing his arms about the neck of the animal, he gave the creature a hearty hug and a kiss. If this mark of affection surprised or touched the burro, it made no sign.

When Kelley had taken a fresh supply of water he retraced his steps to the point where the burro had broken away. It was fully ten miles. There is no doubt but the animal had scented the water all that distance, and eagerness to get to it had led the burro to strain at its fastenings till they broke. Poor Peterson did not survive. Kelley found his body the next morning four or five miles from the point where he had left the trail.

Strange Myths of the Tibetans.

The Tibetans have numberless strange myths, one, the most curious, pertaining to the sun, moon and stars. The sun is believed to be an immense ball of yak meat and fat, whereon the spirits of departed ancestors are supposed to feast, the light being caused by its heated condition. The stars are portions of this immense yeast, which, dropping to earth, give birth to animals for the sustenance of suffering humanity. The moon is a lesser ball of similar texture as the sun, in use while the larger one is being replenished for the morrow. When sun or moon fails to appear in cloudy days and nights it means that the deities are undergoing a period of fasting and religious abnegation. And the parched and sterile condition of bleak regions is ascribed to the fact that many thousand years ago the sun ball slipped from the hands of its keepers, descended too near the earth and before being recaptured scorched those parts with which it came in contact.—Book-lovers' Magazine.

Aaron Burr as a Baby.

As early as 1756, when Burr was a baby of only thirteen months, his own mother wrote this significant description of him: "Aaron is a little dirty, noisy boy. He begins to talk a little, is very sly and mischievous. He has more sprightliness than Sally, his sister, and most say he is handsome, but not so good tempered. He is very resolute and requires a good governor to bring him to terms." That very good governor, his father, who might have made such a difference in the life of the lad, was only a few months later taken out of the world. His mother also soon died.

However, despite all that has been written of the man's shortcomings, there was in his heart space for a very beautiful devotion to his daughter Theodosia. No more exquisite family letters may be found anywhere than those which passed between the two.

Dr. Holmes' Shoe Horn.

That Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes was not only the autocrat of the breakfast table, but was also an autocrat of himself, is humorously illustrated in his four foot long shoe horn, which is now one of the prize relics of famous people in the possession of a Boston collector.

The autocrat, though a little man physically, was big in dignity—and philosophy. The bending down to put on a low shoe by the use of the ordinary horn seemed to him to smack of loutishness, and, besides, was there not in the act a needless—an economic—waste of red corpuscles?

Accordingly he had a common steel shoe horn affixed to a long cane-like handle and ever after gave an exhibition of a gentleman putting on his boots in conformity with the most exacting laws of deportment and hygiene.—Boston Herald.

THE EXTREME OF THE LINGERIE HAT.

The extreme of the lingerie mode is pictured in the hat of English embroidery, which in this instance is fashioned upon a featherbone frame, so that it may be plunged into the tub when soiled and come forth looking like new. The crown is of tucked linen with a little Valenciennes edge whipped on each tuck, and the brim is covered on the outside with the English embroidery and faced beneath with frills of coin spot Valenciennes to meet the drooping edge of the upper brim. There is a bandeau faced with ribbon, and a fluffy bunch of yellow California poppies are tucked in under the brim. Needless to say these are to be removed when the hat makes its periodical visits to the cleansing tub of the laundress.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

1. The democrats of Michigan, in convention assembled, indorse the platform and the candidates of the national convention recently held at St. Louis.
2. We favor the nomination of all candidates for office by direct vote of the people and will do everything in our power to secure legislation directly to that end.
3. We favor the adoption of such legislation or constitutional amendments as shall provide, viz:
 - A. For the election of railroad and tax commissioners by a direct vote of the people.
 - B. For municipal home rule.
 - C. For the election of United States senators by popular vote.
 - D. For the enactment of such legislation and constitutional amendments as will determine reasonable compensation for the transportation of passengers and freight upon the electric and steam railroads of the state, and to authorize the several city authorities in cities and the township authorities outside of cities, to fix and determine form time to time, the maximum charge for street car service and for gas and electric light service and other public utilities.
4. We urge the submission of an amendment to the constitution of the state of Michigan authorizing cities and villages to acquire ownership by purchase or condemnation of public utilities, within their respective limits, with full authority to control the same for the common good.
5. We believe that laws should be enacted making it a criminal offense for any member of the state legislature or a state officer to accept or use free transportation from any railroad company, the object of such favors being obvious.
6. We believe in the submission of all questions of great public import to a direct vote of the people.
7. The administration of our state government at the present time and for several years past has been in the highest degree unsatisfactory and discreditable to the people of Michigan. The recent republican state convention was dominated by the same spirit and the same corporate interests which has controlled the present administration. We deem it the duty of all loyal citizens regardless of party connection, to rebuke, by an overwhelming vote next November, the practices, the extravagance, the incompetence and the disloyalty which prevail at present.
8. Our state government needs readjustment upon the lines of greater economy and better business methods. We urge the voters of Michigan to lay aside party prejudices, to elect members of the state legislature who are in sympathy with primary reform and the other principles herein enunciated and to unite with us in electing the state officers nominated at this convention who are pledged to the earnest support of those principles.

THE DETROIT TRIBUNE.

That great independent and eminently fair newspaper, The Detroit Tribune, has just completed a work of much historic value to the state of Michigan. The work is the official souvenir of the recent celebration at Jackson of the fiftieth anniversary of the monster mass meeting held under the Jackson Oaks July 6, 1854, at which Michigan placed herself squarely against the extension of slavery and formed the republican party. The book contains the official proceedings of the celebration, a history of the republican party and portraits of many eminent citizens who took part in that great historic event of 50 years ago. It also contains engravings of the chief participants in the celebration, of many leading citizens of Michigan. Being bound in leather, the work will form a lasting memento and a valuable historical possession for those who are to receive it.

YOUR SUMMER OUTING.

A duty all people owe themselves, that they may live long and prosper, is to take a certain amount of recreation. Brainworkers especially owe this to themselves. Their work is laborious and monotonous, and they should seek some means to have a change for a week or two at least, in some manner which is entirely different to what they see around them. The least expensive and most enjoyable we can recommend is a water trip. The accommodations are first-class in every way and very reasonable. Send 2-cent stamp for illustrated pamphlet.

CORTELYOU'S ENERGY.

Chairman of Republican National Committee a Tireless Worker.

George B. Cortelyou, chairman of the Republican national committee, has developed into a man of quick action, says the New York Herald. It takes him about two minutes to consider a proposition. If he does not look with favor on it by that time the chances are that it will not be considered again. When he makes his mind up thus in two minutes it usually takes him about thirty seconds more to get to the telephone.

The national headquarters in the Metropolitan Life building in New York is run like a well organized business establishment. An observing man who went to work there recently remarked that it seemed to him that it must have been running at least a year. Mr. Cortelyou is surrounded by former employees of his in the department of commerce and labor, who voluntarily resigned to go with him. He goes to work about 8 o'clock in the morning. He devotes all his time while at the headquarters, which he does not desert until late in the afternoon, to seeing callers, talking with the Chicago headquarters over the long distance telephone and to receiving reports of matters which ought to be done in various states in which the national committee is interested. His system of reports is complete. It is safe to say that he knows more about the political situation of the United States at this minute than any other man.

When he leaves the headquarters Mr. Cortelyou goes to his rooms in the Manhattan hotel. At that time his work is just half through, and he has accomplished more than the average business man who works under full head of steam from 9 to 5. He attends to all his correspondence at the hotel. He has no chance to look at it at the headquarters. He also sees some callers, but only by appointment. He never goes to bed until his work is finished. Sometimes this is 2 o'clock, sometimes it is 3. But he gets up "fresh as a daisy" and is ready for work before the older campaigners at headquarters have finished their coffee and rolls.

FOREST FIRE ALARM.

Wireless Telegraphy to Be Tried in the Black Hills.

Wireless telegraphy is to be employed to aid in saving the forests of the west, says a Washington special dispatch to the New York Times. Plans are being made in the Bureau of forestry to establish wireless stations at intervals throughout the Rocky mountains, where there are large forests and where fires occur in the dry season every year, destroying vast areas of magnificent timber. At these stations expert observers will be kept who will give warning whenever a fire begins, and help will be called to assist in extinguishing it.

The first system to be set in operation will be in the Black hills. Twelve forest rangers are employed by the government there, and it is proposed to divide the territory into twelve sections, with a ranger in charge of each. The ranger is to give an alarm independently of the automatic service if possible. If the system works successfully in the Black hills it will be extended to the other forests in the United States.

PARKER EDITOR OF SONG.

Ex-Judge Bars Word "Rule" From Choral Written by Organist.

Ex-Judge A. B. Parker, presidential nominee on the Democratic ticket, recently set the sign of his approval upon a campaign song written and composed by George Hayden Bromby, F. S. A., the organist of the Church of the Holy Cross at Kingston, of which his son-in-law, the Rev. C. M. Hall, is the rector, says an Esopus dispatch to the New York American.

Mr. Bromby is an Englishman who has been in America two years and does not pretend to know anything about American politics. His song is in C sharp major and is entitled "Safe, Sane and Sound." He bore it in triumph to Rosemount and played and sang to the judge.

The performance went swimmingly. Judge Parker standing at the end of the piano until the composer came to the last four lines in the second stanza, which are as follows:

With confidence in Parker sure
That he will prove O. K.
And make a mighty president
To rule the U. S. A.

"Tush, tush," said Judge Parker; "we do not have mighty presidents ruling the U. S. A."

Bromby was embarrassed until it was suggested that the substitution of the word "guide" or "lead" for "rule" would be satisfactory, and then Judge Parker consented to accept the dedication of the song, and the happy organist, loaded down with white flowers from the Rosemount lawn, returned gayly to Kingston.

The Quiet Japanese.

This is a pen picture by a correspondent of the occupation of a town by Japanese soldiers:

"The Japanese division was in the town, there was no doubt of it, but not even a bugle broke the comparative quiet of the place. I explored the streets to see what had become of these unusual soldiers. I found them in the shadows of verandas, within the shelter of gardens and compounds, resting or cooking their food by little fires that were flickering in numberless different directions. They seemed to have no use for orderlies or staff officers, for everything seemed to be ready, prepared and complete. Or, if any passed to and fro, they seemed as noiseless as the very shadows in which they moved."

THE AIR OF THE CITY

Residence and Grounds of Mr. Jos. Staebler, West of Town, Have It About Them

Country residences as a rule are very different from city residences. There is not at all the same atmosphere about them. Generally instead of a lawn there is a garden or thicket of shrubbery or parched meadow in front of the house. There is not always a good coat of paint on the house itself, nor on the woodwork and porch, if it be a brick house. The driveway is only a place in the yard worn down by the horses' hoofs and the wagon-wheels. The vines, if there be any, are usually running wild and untrimmed. The fence is not carefully kept in repair. The corner of the fences are full of briars. An air of carelessness pervades everything.

With the residence of Mr. Joseph Staebler, west of town, however, all this is different. There you will find a fine green lawn, closely mowed with a lawn mower. You will find a driveway carefully gravelled and distinctly marked off from the lawn. The fence is strong and in good repair. The wood-work of the porch is resplendent in a new coat of paint. The walks are carefully built and show a taste for beauty in their curved outlines. Everything is clean and wholesome.

The same air extends to the barns and barnyards. From quite a distance down the road before you come to Mr. Staebler's residence, one becomes aware that he is approaching the home of a systematic and effective farmer. Waste land does not spread into corn-fields but is fenced off by itself. The barnyards look as if swept clean as a floor. The white outlines of the buildings show clearly. There seems to be some purpose back of it all and it is a pleasure to come near the place.

Inside, the same spirit pervades. The smoothly carpeted floor, the easy furniture, the finely carved piano, the well selected pictures, all carry out the same idea. When Mr. Staebler sits down at his oak secretary in the corner, it seems rather like a well managed business office than the residence of a farmer. And Mr. Staebler does run his farm on business principles or he could not have gathered such a place about him.

Many lessons might be drawn from this farm at the four corners, but the inspiration of a hasty visit supplies them all. Business men gain ideas from visiting one another's stores. Could not farmers profit in the same way?

WEDDING BELLS

Sound Their Chime for Ann Arbor Couples

THREE WEDDINGS

Celebrated in the City—The Friends Join in Wishing the Happy Ones Much Joy

LOVELL-DAVIS.

A wedding of elegant simplicity was that of Miss Emily M. Lovell, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Lovell, to Dr. James E. Davis of Detroit, which took place this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, 813 E. Kingsley street. The ceremony was performed in the front parlor, banked high on either side with palms, between which stood an arch of smilax with a background of white, where the wedding service was said. The only flowers were goldenrod. With this combination coloring of yellow, white and green, the parlors looked like a woodland meadow. The harmony of things was felt, as to the music of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Minnie Davis, the bride and groom came, unattended, and the ceremony was performed to the chime of wedding bells. Rev. E. S. Ninde, pastor of the Methodist church, officiated.

The bride's gown had the elegance and simplicity everywhere characteristic. It was a cream mousseline de soie over cream silk, trimmed with ribbon and oriental lace. The flowers she carried were white asters. The same flowers, mixed with the golden rod, adorned the dining room, where a supper is served in the evening at which over one hundred guests are present.

The bride and groom leave tonight on the 8:03 train for the East, where they will make a trip through New York state, visiting points of interest, journeying backward on the St. Lawrence and touring the lakes, before returning to Detroit, where they will be at home after December 1 at 831 W. Fort street.

The bride is a graduate of Alma college and has been taking special work in the University for the past two and one-half years. Dr. Davis is instructor of materia medica and therapeutics in the Detroit College of Medicine and is well known in medical and religious circles in Detroit, being connected with the Methodist church and Epworth League of that city. He has been president of the Detroit Union of Epworth Leagues for four years and vice president of the International Epworth League convention held in Detroit.

The gifts received by the bride and groom are numerous and exceedingly beautiful.

The out of town guests present are: Miss M. Murray, Detroit; Miss Amy Nelson, Prescott, Ariz.; Mr. and Mrs. R. Butler, Woodstock, Ont.; Miss E. Ward, Ashtabula, O.; Miss E. Manley, Pontiac; Miss Glasco, Indiana; Miss Kennedy, Paris, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Atwood, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. King, Hickson, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Hohner, Hickson, Ont.; Mr. Alex Lovell, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Davis, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. F. Davis and Miss Mary A. Davis, Brantford, Ont.; Dr. and Mrs. D. Gelb, Groton, S. D.; Miss Jemima Rice, Robert Davis and Mrs. Rice, Woodstock, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Davis, Toronto, Ont.; Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Brown, Whiteford Centre, Mich.; Dr. and Mrs. W. M.

Drake, Breckenridge, Mich.; Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Caster, Medina, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Willoughby, St. Charles, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Willis, Newport News, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Yates, Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Cryderman, Dr. and Mrs. Grant McDonald, Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Sanderson, Dr. H. H. Johnson, Dr. B. H. Jenne, Rev. and Mrs. Eugene Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Radcliffe, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brownlee Horton, Chas. F. Kohn, Miss Carrie Cohn, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gotts, Chas. E. Parker, Frank Parker, Miss Fanny Parker, Miss Mary H. Clark, Chas. N. Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wing, Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Thornton, Miss B. Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Helsom, Miss M. I. Pattinger, Miss Josie Utter, Miss S. Utter, C. E. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dick, Mrs. John Higgs, Miss Ethel Higgs, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holton, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Ralston, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Curtiss, Mrs. H. C. Sterling, Miss M. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Goss, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Atkinson, Mrs. Atkinson Sr., James Atkinson, Miss Myrtle Ely, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Brown, Mrs. J. J. Caspari, Mr. and Mrs. E. Lanphere, Miss Millie Partlow, Mrs. S. Trombley, Miss F. Trombley, Russel Trombley, Miss K. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. L. Sauer, Ensign Norgensen, Dr. Emil Amberg, Miss Leila Cryderman, Mr. and Mrs. John Brownell, all of Detroit.

The decorating was done by Cousins & Hall and the catering by D. M. Willis.

DORROW-LUDWIG.

One of the largest home weddings in the city took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock when Miss Frances A. Dorrow and Gottlob Ludwig, both of this city were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Dorrow, 1309 Mill street, 160 guests being present. Rev. S. A. John, pastor of the Bethlehem church, officiated. The house was decorated with goldenrod and white asters and ferns, and under an arch of the same the bridal party stood, the bride dressed in her gown of cream gloria silk carrying pink roses, the bridesmaid, Miss Elizabeth Dorrow, sister of the bride, dressed in white Swiss mull, carrying white asters. The best man was Martin Ludwig, brother of the groom. The wedding march was played by Miss Ida Steffe.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served, many guests being present from South Lyon, Whitmore Lake and Northfield, the former home of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig will reside on Ashley street, where they will be at home after Sept. 15. The bride is well known in Ann Arbor. She graduated from the high school here in the class of 1899, and since then has taught in Northfield. Mr. Ludwig came to Ann Arbor from Northfield about a year ago, during which time he has been employed on the University campus.

Gifts of cut-glass, china and silverware were the remembrances of many friends.

BREISCH-BENZ.

The marriage of Miss Mary Breisch to Victor G. Benz, both of this city, takes place tonight at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's cousin, Louis Breisch, in Pittsfield, the ceremony being performed by Rev. A. L. Nicklas, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church. It will be a quiet home wedding, only the immediate relatives being present.

The house is prettily decorated with goldenrod, in hall, diningroom and parlor, where the ceremony is to be performed, ferns and golden glow forming an arch under which the bridal party announce to their friends and the public generally that they are now prepared to install in this city.

A HOME BANK DEPARTMENT

In connection with their Store—2nd Floor

A Steel Safe, like the picture above, is LOANED WITHOUT ANY CHARGE to every person opening an account in the Home Bank Department of Mack & Co. An account can be opened with a deposit of One Dollar ($1.00), or as much more as the depositor desires not to exceed $500.00. This dollar is placed to your credit on our books, and also on a pass book, which we furnish you. This dollar and all additional deposits, earn interest at the rate of

4 Per Cent per year

Compounded Semi-Annually

The steel safe, which we loan to you, is kept in your own possession. Whatever sums (large or small) you desire to save, can be placed in this safe, and therefore such sums are securely saved. Occasionally, perhaps once in thirty days, bring your safe to us to be opened in your presence. Whatever amount that may be in it is placed to your credit on your pass book, and the safe returned to you for further use. We shall send our representatives to personally explain this excellent plan to every one in this section interested in it, and these representatives are authorized to leave one of these little safes with you and to receive your first deposit of One Dollar, giving you a proper receipt therefor. Also at our Home Deposit Office, 2nd Floor you can secure full information.

APPEAL TAKEN IN MADIGAN CASE

The bride's gown is of pearl gray crepe de chene and she will carry white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Emma Breisch, sister of the bride, will wear a dress of tan voile, her flowers being carnations. Fred Benz, of Detroit, brother of the groom, is best man.

After the wedding ceremony a supper will be served to 30 guests, Miss Amelia Trautwein and Miss Helen Noll serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Benz will leave tonight for a trip up the lakes, and will be at home after October 1 at 324 E. Liberty street.

The bride and groom are both well known in this city, the groom having been in business here for the past eight years as a dealer in agricultural implements.

Mr. and Mrs. Benz have hosts of friends to shower them with congratulations.

FOSTERS.

Fosters, Aug. 30.—There was a large crowd at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Steeb last Sunday to help in the celebration of Miss Anna's birthday. Guests to the number of 50 were served with refreshments. There were friends and relatives present from Ann Arbor, Webster, Salem and Scio. Mr. Staebler, who lives at the water-works, treated a number of Fosters people to an auto ride Sunday, which they greatly enjoyed.

BAD ACCIDENT TO CHRISTENSON

John Christenson, an employee of the Michigan Agricultural Co., thrust his right hand in the path of a saw this afternoon and the thumb and first two fingers were badly mangled. He had worked for 14 years at the saw and this is the first time he has had an accident.

Ancient Mirrors.

Wilkinson, the historian, shows that the world is indebted for mirrors to the ancient Egyptians. At first they were made of metal, so well compounded and polished that some recently dug up from Thebes have regained a wonderful luster after burial for thousands of years. Oval in shape, they were fastened to carved wooden handles. References are made to such looking glasses in Exodus and Job. The Greeks and Romans made similar mirrors of silver.

At Murano, near Venice, in the thirteenth century the republic protected the trade and jealously guarded its secrets, securing a lucrative business for a century and a half. Mirrors were then made from cylinders of glass flattened on stone, carefully polished, beveled at the edges and silvered by an amalgam.

Origin of Pussy's Name.

A great many years ago the people of Egypt, who had many idols, worshipped the cat among others. They thought she was like the moon, because she was more active at night and because her eyes changed like the moon, which is sometimes full and at other times only a slight crescent, or, as we say, a half moon. So they made an idol with a cat's head and named it Pasht. The same name they gave to the moon, for the word means the face of the moon. The word has been changed to "Pas" and "Pus" and has come at last to be "Puss," the name the most of us give to the cat. Puss and pussy cat are pet names for kitty anywhere now. But few think of the name as given to her thousands of years ago and of the people who then bowed down and prayed to her.

BROKE WITH THE LOAD

Heavy Crane Fell Killing One Man, Hurt Six Others

ACCIDENT NEAR DETROIT

Two Victims Were Pinned Under the Falling Wreck

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31.—The collapsing of a huge unloading crane at the Zug island blast furnace at Dearborn, a suburb of Detroit, inflicted injuries on Sandor Kovacs from which he died half an hour later at the Solvay hospital and also injured seriously five other employees. The accident will greatly hamper work at the plant until the crane can be repaired.

The crane is used in the unloading of iron ore from vessels, and work had just started when the fastenings on a bucket that was filled with ore and being lifted broke, allowing the five tons of ore to swing against the side of the crane. The dozen men working about did not think that there was any immediate danger until there was a crackling of the iron braces, followed almost immediately by the crashing collapse of the structure. Most of the men jumped in time to escape injury, but five were grazed by flying pieces of iron, and Sandor Kovacs was pinned down under all the debris. His companions hastily removed the tangled iron work and extracted Kovacs, only to find that he was badly crushed. He was taken to the Solvay hospital but nothing could be done to save him.

The Cost of War.

Give me the money, says a recent speculative philosopher, that has been spent in war and I will purchase every foot of land on the globe. I will clothe every man, woman and child in an attire of which kings and queens would be proud. I will build a schoolhouse on every hillside and in every valley over the whole earth. I will build an academy in every town and endow it, a college in every state and fill it with able professors. I will crown every hill with a place of worship consecrated to the promulgation of peace. I will support in every pulpit an able teacher of righteousness, so that on every Sabbath morning the chime on one hill shall answer to the chime on another around the earth's wide circumference and the voice of prayer and the song of praise should ascend like a universal holocaust to heaven.—New York Globe.

DROVE BACK THE JAPS

Russians Repel Attack by Bayonet Charges

DECISIVE BATTLE

Now On at Liao Yang — Nearly Half Million Men Engaged

London, Aug. 31.—A dispatch from Liao Yang to a news agency last evening says:

"The Japanese artillery fire only ceased at 8 o'clock this evening. The casualties have not yet been ascertained.

"The third Russian corps repulsed a hot Japanese assault, the Japanese being hurled back by bayonet charges, firstly by the Twenty-third and then by the Twenty-fourth regiments, which received and repulsed the enemy no less than six times.

"Two Japanese companies which succeeded in occupying a Russian position were mistaken for Russians and annihilated by Japanese artillery fire.

"At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the Japanese concentrated their fire on a Russian southern detachment and also tried to outflank the detachment from the right under the protection of the batteries, but a Russian regiment and a battery succeeded in forcing the enemy to retreat in disorder, evacuating positions they previously had gained. A more energetic attack is expected tomorrow."

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—(5:55 a.m.)—The great battle of Liao Yang, which began early Tuesday morning, raged throughout the day with increasing intensity, but up to this hour no further official details beyond the two brief telegrams given out in the afternoon have been received by the war office. Every confidence is expressed in Gen. Kuropatkin's ability to meet the Japanese assault on ground of his own choosing, but the city is hungrily awaiting further news of the progress of the fight.

Great Armies in Field.
The Japanese forces engaged in the battle can only be estimated here, but they are believed to number about 200,000 men. Gen. Kuropatkin is known to have six army corps, besides 147 squadrons of cavalry, in which great confidence is reposed, bringing up the Russian total to about the same number that the Japanese have.

How the armies compare with regard to artillery is not definitely known, though throughout the war the Japanese have shown great preference for this arm and skill in its use. Reports from the front credit the Japanese with having about 1,200 guns and many mountain batteries, and it is known that they recently shipped twenty-four heavy guns to Yinkow. Four of these guns already have been mentioned in these dispatches as being in action.

Gen. Kuropatkin in addition to his field batteries has a number of very heavy guns emplaced at important positions at Liao Yang, where the Russians have been strongly fortifying for some time. The Japanese claim to have captured two field batteries during the past two days. Russian official accounts admit the loss of only six guns. It is stated that a Japanese battery was captured south of Anshan-shan during the preliminary fighting and that several Japanese guns have been destroyed since then.

Little of the strategic situation has developed so far. Official news from the front says that there was desperate fighting on the southern center.

Russia to Borrow $250,000,000.

London, Aug. 31.—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at St. Petersburg sends the following dispatch, which is published this morning: "The finance ministry has practically arranged with German bankers for a loan of 500,000,000 roubles (approximately $250,000,000) at a higher rate of interest than that on the last loan. Only minor details remain to be settled and the date of issue is not stated, but it is not likely that the loan will be floated until after the fall of Port Arthur. At first it was intended to wait until the spring, as gold is not yet needed, but various motives, including a desire to spoil the market for Japan, has induced the ministry to close with the German offer, reserving to itself the choice as to the time of the issue of the loan, which it is expected will be distributed among various European countries.

Picknickers Annoy Judge Parker.

Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Judge Parker's candidacy for president of the United States has caused his place at Rosemount to be visited by picnic parties in constantly increasing numbers. Some of the parties come from long distances. They enter the grounds usually without introduction or permission, make themselves at home with the utmost freedom and leave the place littered with picnic leavings. One party recently stripped several of the apple trees in the orchard and committed other depredations. Judge Parker has been most cordial in his treatment of all visitors, but the picknickers are causing much annoyance.

WON BY AMERICANS.

Famous-Marathon Race Pulled Off at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Aug. 31.—The Olympic marathon race, the third foot race contest of the kind ever held and the first ever held on American soil, participated in by thirty-one men classed among the fleetest runners of the world, was won Tuesday by Thomas L. Hicks of Cambridge, Mass., who is the first American to win this event celebrated in the revival of olympic games. Albert J. Corey of Chicago, a native born Frenchman, crossed the goal line second, and A. L. Newton of New York city crossed third. The distance of the race was forty kilometers, equal to twenty-four miles and 1,500 yards. This distance was run by Hicks in the officially announced time of 3 hours 28 minutes and 53 seconds; Corey 3 hours, 34 minutes and 16 seconds; Newton 3 hours, 47 minutes and 33 seconds.

The first olympic marathon race was held at Athens, Greece, in 1896, and won by Loues, a Greek, in 2 hours and 55 minutes; the second olympic marathon race was held in Paris in 1900 and won by Teato of France in 2 hours and 59 minutes. The winner of yesterday's race received a cup presented by President Francis of the exposition and an olympic championship gold medal, the second a silver medal, and the third a medal of bronze.

GEORGE W. CUMMINGS DEAD.

Vice President and a Founder of the American Press Association.

New York, Aug. 31.—George W. Cummings, vice president of the American Press Association, died suddenly Aug. 28 at Banff, Northwest Territories, while on his way from his home in Los Angeles, Cal., to New York.

Mr. Cummings was born near Terre Haute, Ind., in 1848 and was graduated from Indiana State university in 1872. He was married in 1879 to Miss Josephine de Fontaine of Charleston, S. C., who died in 1903. He engaged in journalism in Terre Haute and afterward in St. Louis.

In 1882, in connection with Major O. J. Smith and R. W. Nelson, Mr. Cummings founded the American Press Association in Chicago. Last spring he removed from New York, where he had lived for twenty years, to Los Angeles. His health had been impaired for some years before his death. He was identified with a number of business undertakings and died possessed of a considerable fortune. He will be buried in Woodlawn cemetery, New York.

FROM LIFE IN PRISON

Ex-Sultan Murad Is Relieved by Hand of Death.

Constantinople, Aug. 31.—Former Sultan Murad V. is dead of diabetes, from which he had long suffered. The remains were interred in the Yenidjama mausoleum at Stamboul, where his mother is buried.

Murad V. was born in 1840 and ascended the throne after the murder of the sultan, Abdul Aziz, May, 1876. In July of that year Murad was placed under the regency of his brother, the present sultan, Abdul Hamid II., and on Aug. 31 he was deposed. Outwardly this act was performed legally by the council of ministers on the ground that he was insane. The facts in the case, however, will probably never be known, but it has been claimed that Murad was a good deal more sane than his brother, and one of the greatest terrors of Abdul Hamid's existence was the fear that this Turkish "man with the iron mask," as he has been termed, might escape.

MURDERED FOUR MEN

A Connecticut Farmer Is Believed to Have Done It

TWO BODIES FOUND

Wree Buried on His Farm — Attempted the Life of Another Man

Colchester, Conn., Aug. 31.—That Gershon B. Marx, now held in the Norwich county jail, is the perpetrator of a series of cold-blooded murders probably without precedent in the history of Connecticut, is the belief of the state officials who have just begun a systematic search for bodies on the Marx farm. Four murders and an attempt to poison another man can, it is believed by these officials, be traced to Marx. The bodies of two of Marx's victims, Joe Pavol and Joe Palm, have been found. Marx is awaiting trial charged with the murder of Pavol, his wife being held as a witness for the state. The two bodies for which the search was begun are those of an 18-year-old boy and a Hebrew peddler.

The boy, who was known as Harry, arrived in New York from Russia about three years ago and he came here soon after to work for Marx. He worked on the farm for about six months and then suddenly disappeared. Marx was asked to explain the lad's absence and said he had gone to Hartford to find employment. Beyond that he would not talk about the boy.

The Hebrew peddler went to the Marx home one evening two years ago and he has not been seen since, so far as known. These two men, in the opinion of the state's attorney and Sheriff Jackson, met their death in the same manner as the two farm hands, and to obtain positive proof supporting their opinion efforts will be made to unearth the bodies.

With Poisoned Whisky.

A Poland, known as "Joe," made a statement to Sheriff Jackson, in which he accused Marx of attempting to end his life with poisoned whisky. Marx made still another attempt on "Joe's" life when the latter discovered the body of Pavol, it is claimed. After he had exhumed the body "Joe" went to the house and accused Marx of murdering Pavol and said he intended to notify the authorities. Marx thereupon picked up a scythe and said if Joe attempted to leave the place he would cut his head off.

The motive for the crimes can only be traced to an insane desire on the part of Marx to escape paying money to persons to whom he was indebted. The two men whose bodies have been found were six months behind in their wages, as was the young boy Harry, of whom no trace has yet been found. The manner in which these men met their death appears to be plain. Each of the bodies already found bears a ghastly hole in the forehead.

That of the Hebrew peddler, the case appears to have been robbery and then murder.

There seems to be no doubt but that the other two bodies will be discovered. The prisoner is a man 80 years of age and his health has been broken. He may die before being convicted.

FOR STEPMOTHER'S BODY.

Horace McKiver Promises to Make Trouble Unless Surrendered.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—The will of Mrs. J. H. McKiver, who died last week in Pasadena, Cal., was opened and read today, and Horace McKiver, when he came from the secret conference at which its provisions were revealed, expressed satisfaction.

"It is impossible for me to tell you the contents of the will," he said. "I have only to say that I am perfectly satisfied with it. I believe the will we found here to be the last one she made. Inasmuch as I am satisfied with the will, I do not think I should be accused of being mercenary. But I will fight to the last inch for the possession of Mrs. McKiver's body."

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 31.—The body of Mrs. J. H. McKiver, widow of the former Chicago theatrical manager, together with all of her effects at the Pasadena hotel, where she died, are being held by her physician, Dr. L. C. H. Zeigler, who has indicated that he will not surrender the body or the effects on the order of her stepson, Horace McKiver of Chicago. He has concluded arrangements to ship the body east within the next day to two.

Three Killed by Mob.

Stephens, Ark., Aug. 31.—A triple tragedy has occurred near Mount Holy, Union county, in which one white man and two negroes were shot to death. Details are very meager, but it is said that two negroes offered an indignity to a white woman. A mob went out on a hunt for the negroes, with the result that a white man, a stranger named Stover, together with a negro man and a woman, were killed.

Murdered Sleeping Son.

Pittsburg, Aug. 31.—Crazed by the effects of liquor, Frank Leopold, a German, aged 50 years, residing at Heidelberg, a mining town near here, murdered his 11-year-old son with a butcher knife while the child was sleeping.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Washtenaw—ss.

World's Fair Scheme.

SOLVES THE PROBLEM OF PRO-CURING ACCOMMODATIONS AT ST. LOUIS IN ADVANCE.

The Argus has been appointed Ann Arbor representative for the St. Louis Service Co., which has been organized and incorporated for the purpose of furnishing visitors to the St. Louis Exposition with suitable rooming accommodations. The Company has options on 25,000 rooms, in the various rooming and boarding houses in the West End district, in close proximity to the World's Fair grounds, which it proposes to let from $7 to $25 a week.

Where are you going to stop? Is the question that thousands who contemplate visiting the St. Louis Exposition this summer will ask themselves. By seeing The Argus and engaging quarters in advance, money, time and worry can be saved. The lessee of a room is given a certificate describing in detail the room which is registered in the office of the company, and when he gets to St. Louis, all he will have to do is to hand this certificate to a Yellow Capped Uniformed Messenger of the St. Louis Service Co., at the Union Station, or the World's Fair Terminal Station, who will conduct him without delay to his or her quarters. The certificate holder is also furnished with a self directed postal card which is mailed to his home town before starting, on which he is instructed to notify the Company the exact date of his arrival in St. Louis.

SEEING THE FAIR IN DETAIL

Tools of a Once Great Industry—Whalers' Outfit From North Carolina That Has Seen Years of Use—The Killing of a Whale—The Kind of Fowling Piece George Washington Carried. Birds of North Carolina—Two That Tennyson Mentions—Fisher Birds and Robbers—How the Demersals of Milliners Nearly Exterminated the Snowy Heron—Shore and Marsh Birds.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE BY MARK BENNETT.)

Perhaps because a near neighbor of mine followed the sea in his youth and used to regale me in after dinner hours with narratives of life aboard a whaler I was more interested than you may be in the old whaling outfit which hangs in the North Carolina exhibit. What exciting scenes must have accompanied their use! The picture in the old geography labeled "Whaling in the Arctic" represented a whale breaking a boat in two with a flip of his tail, while men were flying in the air like so many pairs of open shears in the hands of a juggler. That picture gave me a perpetual distaste for whaling in its rigorous reality, but the narratives have never lost flavor.

You may not know that whaling is still an industry of no small importance along the Atlantic coast, for we still must have whalebone. Whales are, in fact, more abundant than at the time whaling lost its greatest importance, following the discovery of petroleum. The whaling of North Carolina is "shore whaling," but the whaler's outfit is the same as used aboard ship when the whales are lashed to the sides to be cut up and the blubber tried out on board the vessel. This outfit was in use as late as last spring off Beaufort. On one of the lances we may read upon a label in the whaler's own language, "Bin in 43 Whales."

When a whale was sighted in the old days the first act was to harpoon him. This act was usually attended with great peril. I suspect that the men in the geography picture had just harpooned a whale and the whale had resented it. Then came the lancing with the long sharp spear to reach the lungs and cause death. Between the harpooning and lancing a considerable interval usually occurred. The whale would "sound" after harpooning, going below and taking with him a boat load of rope attached to the harpoon. The harpoon has cruel barbs, its first purpose being to fasten a line to the whale. Sometimes the line would not run smoothly as the whale went down. Now and then it would loop around some object in the boat—perhaps one of the crew—and many a whaler has gone to Davy Jones' locker by that swift route.

The drag, which you may see here, is a wooden block twelve to fifteen inches square, with a hole through the center. Through this hole the harpoon rope runs, and when the drag may be safely launched the rope is knotted to hold the drag, which is intended to retard the progress of the whale and tire him.

The lancing of the whale is scarcely less dangerous than the harpooning, for the victim may still have much strength and a worse temper than when the big barbed harpoon entered his side.

The toggle iron is another form of harpoon, with point and barb on a hinge, so that a backward pull when it is once in the whale spreads the tool in the animal's flesh and holds it more securely.

The whale gun was invented during the later period of the whaling industry, and the harpooner became the man behind the gun. The whale gun has a bore of nearly an inch and carries a ten inch bomb with rubber feathers to guide the explosive missile. The gunner is not always sure of his whereabouts immediately after a shot on account of a tremendous recoil. The bomb has a fuse set at two seconds, and when well within the vitals of a whale makes quick work of him. The powder horn and cap box hang beside the old gun, and this whale spade, to cut off the blubber, has seen service in hundreds of whales. When passing along the north aisle of the Palace of Forestry take a look at these tools used in the romantic industry that built up New Bedford and other New England towns in the early part of the last century.

When George Washington went out into his preserves to shoot a few ducks or other birds, he carried a fowling piece with barrel seven feet long. It was a muzzle loader and had a flintlock. And, by the way, a flintlock was about as ingenious an invention as the modern breechloader. A fowling gun such as Father George must have carried is in one of the cases of the North Carolina exhibit of game birds. Alongside it is a revolutionary musket, the selfsame gun whose shot, in poetic phrase, was heard round the world.

This leads me to the birds of North Carolina. Here are the birds that Tennyson meant when he wrote in "The Brook."

I come from haunts of coot and hern.

The coot and the hern, or heron, are in the same case. The coot is a disappointment as to poetic grace, being rather too pussy, suggesting an inactive life. The herons are all beautiful notwithstanding their long shanks, which trail through the air as they fly. This is a delightful place to study bird lore, particularly if you sit under the spell of H. H. Brimley, curator of the state museum at Raleigh, the commissioner general for

North Carolina at the exposition. Invariably the states have chosen from among their best men their representatives at the fair. The picked men of the world are here, making this the grandest educational project ever brought to consummation.

But to get back to North Carolina birds. Here are the fishers—the gulls, the terns or pointed bill gulls, the loons and gannets, the last huge white birds. The feet are the distinguishing "features" of these birds. The cormorant has an extra spread of webbing between his four toes, being, in the language of the natural history, totipalmate, or full webbed, while the grebes are merely lobe footed—a little webbing on each toe. Even in lower animal life nature bestows abundance on some of her children and handicaps others.

Here, too, is the jaeger, or hunting gull, not a fisherman, but living on fish, which he obtains in the same way as some men obtain a living—by taking it from others. When he sees the fisher gull rise from the waters with a live morsel he gives chase till the rightful owner drops it; then he dashes down and grabs it midair before it can strike water. The bald eagle here is the same sort of bird. He sits on a limb till a fishhawk makes a catch, then on swift wing soon claims the mouthful for himself. No doubt he goes home and tells what a great fisherman he is. A highwayman usually has other faults. Therefore, my children, give no credence to fish stories told by bald eagles.

Did you ever connect egret, that beautiful and delicate filamentary white feather which stands up so straight in milady's hat, with egret, the white heron? In North Carolina's exhibit of herons are the great white egret and the little egret, or snowy heron. Egrets were in such demand that these beautiful birds became almost extinct. Egrets are now protected by law in North Carolina and are again seen with more frequency. All herons have egret decorations of some sort somewhere, but the white ones are most sought after.

I cannot drop the herons till I call your attention to the bigness of the heron family, from the big blue heron three feet tall, with a wing spread of six feet, to the least bittern but ten inches high and weighing but an ounce or two. Eleven kinds are here shown in one case. The wood ibis is a full yard high and finely feathered.

I was an intense admirer of the sandpiper when a small boy. He is fleet of foot and quick of wing and the best example of alertness that one meets along the shore. He has an ungainly bob, and his legs are so thin as to be almost invisible at the distance which he deems safe, but he is trim and lithe, and his little piping note lends romance to shore life. One does not easily forget his boyhood associates, these birds of the beach and marsh all reminiscent of boyhood and vacation days, the snipes and rails and the blackbirds with scratchy notes—counterfeit notes, in fact. The purple gallinule has perhaps the richest plumage of the Carolina birds, a color note that would be brilliant on any landscape.

The oyster catcher is so named because he has not merely a taste for shellfish, but a chisel bill with perpendicular blade with which to open—not oysters, but the weaker bivalves. The turnstone is a beach bird which gets its living by turning small stones along the shore and eating the insects that thought themselves safe in such seclusion.

If you have had sora on toast at any swell restaurant or cafe you will at once recognize this one among the Carolina birds. Though quite unlike the redbird or bobolink, their names often get mixed on the menu, as their bodies do in the chef's kitchen.

Here are two of the larger rails—the clapper rail in gray of the salt marshes, whose notes are a succession of resonant clappings, and the brown king rail of the fresh marshes.

Perhaps we need no warning that we do not always get canvasback duck when it is on the bill of fare. North Carolina, one of the favored homes of this epicurean delicacy, includes twenty-four kinds of ducks in her game bird display, but the canvasback is king among them, the best and, of course, the scarcest one of the highest priced edibles found in an American market.

Five varieties of wild geese are in this exhibit, and the whistling swan, large and beautiful, in the favored attitude of taxidermy, makes one rub his eyes and wonder why he has not himself seen these great wild birds in life. Fair Grounds, St. Louis.

Novel Slang Term.
Chefu has been added to our vernacular. In the east when anybody relates some astounding tale the cry of "That's a Chefu!" greets it, says the Kansas City Journal. As Chefu has turned out some of the most terrific rumors war was ever blessed with it wouldn't be strange if the name of the enterprising place was thus immortalized. So if you don't care to say to a man frankly, "You're a liar," why, just call him a Chefu. He will appreciate it just as well. Besides, it sounds less rude.

A Fuel From Peat.
Walter Schumann, consul at Mainz, Germany, writes thus to the state department at Washington: "Osmon, a new fuel, is made from peat. The peat used contains 90 per cent of water, of which 20 to 25 per cent is removed by means of an electric current. The peat is then further dried and passed through a machine which breaks it up and forms it into briquettes or nut-shaped pieces. Osmon is free from sulphur and burns without slag or smoke."

WANTS BELL OUSTED.

Former Cripple Creek Sheriff Says He Was Forced to Resign.

Cripple Creek, Aug. 31.—The first of the promised suits by officers of Teller county, who were deprived of their offices, has just been filed in the district court. Henry M. Robertson, former sheriff, petitions the court to oust Edward Bell from the office of sheriff and assess $5,000 damages against him for usurping the office.

In the complaint Robertson recites the events that occurred on June 6 last, when he was compelled to resign. Soon after the independence explosion, he declares, he was induced to enter Armory hall, where a large number of mine owners were congregated. The doors were immediately locked and a guard placed at them. Then he was informed that unless he resigned as sheriff he would be killed. He demurred, and a rope with a noose was shown him and he was informed that unless he resigned quickly the doors of the hall would be opened and the mob permitted to enter and lynch him. He resigned in order to save his life.

Informations were also filed before District Judge Lewis, charging Rev. T. S. Leland, L. A. Jenks and Arthur Parker with a conspiracy to murder Sheriff Edward Bell and Deputy Sheriff Underwood. These cases are based on the shooting, from Mr. Leland's house on Sunday night, when Sheriff Bell demanded admittance. Bell was fixed at $2,500 and the arrested are still in jail.

E. S. Holden, former secretary of engineers' union No. 75, has been brutally beaten by four masked men while on his way to the Vincinator mine, where he works. He was opposed to the strike in this district and became identified with the non-union men, taking out a mine owner's card last December.

TO SPREAD THE STRIKE.

Other Employes In Stockyards Will Quit Work.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—A strong effort is to be made by the leaders of the unions now at the stockyards to spread the scope of the strike so that it will include every trade which is affiliated, in even a remote degree, with the packing industry.

The first step in this direction was taken last night when the stock handlers now employed at the yards voted to go on strike at 10 o'clock this morning. There are about 1,000 of these men and their duties are to look after and feed the cattle in the pens between the time of their arrival at the yards and the time of their killing. Their action, therefore, will make it incumbent upon the packers to provide other men to take their places at once.

President Donnelly of the butchers' union declares that he would also be able to call out all the switchmen employed on the railroads which do business at the stockyards, and possibly to extend the strike to other departments of the railroads.

Sixteen Men Drowned.

Aden, Arabia, Aug. 31.—A boat containing the captain and sixteen members of the crew, who left the British steamer Baron Innerdale, which was ashore at the Kuria Maria islands, off the southeast coast of Arabia, capsized and all the occupants were drowned with the exception of one boy, who was saved by natives. The Baron Innerdale sailed from Kurracur, British India, July 27 for the United Kingdom or the continent.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

The Right Rev. George Ridding, archbishop of Southwell, England, is dead. He was born in 1828.

The government of Servia proposes to raise a loan of $6,000,000 for purposes of extending the railway system of the kingdom.

Attorney Charles W. Knight of Delaware, O., suffered an attack of epilepsy while in bathing at Cedar Point, near Sandusky, O., and was drowned in the presence of his two sisters.

The bureau of insular affairs of the war department has received a request from the Philippine government to have $1,000,000 worth of half pesos coined at the San Francisco mint for the Philippines.

Commander James H. Perry of the bureau of steam engineering at Washington, has just retired for age with the rank of captain. With him goes from the active list of the navy one of the last of the volunteer officers who entered the navy during the civil war.

Fitzgerald S. Turton, second lieutenant in the Twenty-second United States infantry, has committed suicide on the island of Mindanao, Philippine islands. Lieut. Turton was born in New Zealand. He was appointed to the grade of second lieutenant from the ranks.

The second international congress of the History of Religions has opened in Basel, Switzerland. Over 300 learned men from all parts of the world are present. Among the speakers was Dr. Hauptmann of Baltimore, who addressed the congress in behalf of the United States government.

So far as Kansas City is concerned meat packers believe the strike is ended. Many of the extra watchmen employed when the strike was ordered have been discharged. A packing house manager says that at least one-half of the strikers have gone back to work and about one-fourth of them have left the city.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE.

Default having been made in the payment of a certain mortgage made by Joseph B. Steere to Emeline Phillips dated the 13th day of January, 1893, and recorded in the Register's office for Washtenaw county, Michigan, on the 14th day of January, 1893, at ten and one-half o'clock a. m., in Liber 79 of Mortgages, on page 474, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Nineteen Hundred and Forty-five Dollars and fifty-five cents ($1945.55) and no suit at law or in equity having been instituted for the collection of said amount or any part thereof. Said mortgage having been given for purchase money, is a purchase money mortgage.

Now therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the tenth day of September next, at eleven o'clock a. m., at the south door of the court house in the city of Ann Arbor, there will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage at that date and the costs of this foreclosure, including the attorney fees provided for in said mortgage. The premises so to be sold are described as follows: The south-east quarter of the south-east quarter of Section 17 in the Township of Pittsfield, Washtenaw county, Michigan.

The company returned home at 4:30 after a very enjoyable day.

FRANK LOCKHART BITTEN BY DOG

Was Petting the Animal When Master Called

Boy's Face Is In Frightful Condition — Owner Refuses to Shoot the Dog

"If you refuse to shoot the dog, as you say you won't, I will have him shot for you if it takes the entire sheriff's force in Washtenaw county to do it," wrote Chief of Police Warner this morning to Charles Coombs, a farmer residing south of this city.

Yesterday, Frank Lockhart, the seven year old son of Mrs. Lockhart, a widow employed in the Landcaster boarding house, went out to the Coombs farm to spend a few weeks at the request of Miss Coombs. Just before supper Mr. Coombs was feeding his calves and he called his shepherd dog to drive them back to the pasture. At that time Frankie was petting the dog and he had his arms around the dog's neck. Without warning the dog suddenly turned on him and bit his face in a frightful manner.

The boy was taken to Dr. Hull's office who dressed the lad's face, which is in awful shape. His lips are torn and bitten, while the animal's teeth bit right through his nose. One of his eyes is swollen shut, and if the boy ever survives he will be disfigured for life. Dr. Hull says it is the worst case of the kind he ever saw.

Just at present his life is in great danger as blood poisoning is apt to set in.

Mr. Coombs refused to shoot the dog, as he is valued at $25, and he does not think the dog is to blame for the accident as much as the boy. Frank is an only son and his mother has to work for a living.

END OF BITTER FIGHT.

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung" writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely gained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Cold and Throat and Lung Troubles. Guaranteed by H. F. Miller and A. E. Mummary's drug stores. Price 50c, and $1.00.

MANY ARE PRESENT

At Epworth League Convention—Opened Last Night

DR. GEORGE ELLIOTT

Was Principal Speaker — Convention Being Continued Today

The fifteenth annual convention of the Ann Arbor district of the Epworth league opened last evening at the Methodist church of this city, under auspicious circumstances, for there was a large attendance both from this city and other places in the district. Delegations are present from Ann Arbor, Adrian, Blissfield, Clinton, Detroit, Chelsea, Dexter, Stockbridge, Saline, Milan, Tecumseh, Morenci, Hudson, Manchester and other smaller places.

Last night's meeting began at 7:30 and was opened by a song service and Pres. L. M. Milner of Stockbridge presided. Rev. E. S. Ninde of Ann Arbor led the devotional exercises, which were followed by the reading of the minutes of the last meeting. Rev. A. J. Hutchins of the Baptist church brought greetings from his church and the local society of the B. Y. P. U., while a message was read from Rev. A. G. Beach of the Congregational church as he was unable to be present. As the Presbyterian church is still without a pastor, William B. Hatch represented that church. These were responded to by Miss Flora Kemp of Chelsea. F. E. Quigley of this city delivered the address of welcome to the visiting delegates.

Rev. Dr. George Elliott of the Central M. E. church of Detroit, gave a lively and eloquent address on "The Place of the Young People in the Church" that was witty, interesting and full of common sense. He insisted that the young people have a right in the church, because nobody on earth has a right to be out of the church. Not only should the young people belong to the young people's societies, but they should take an active part in the work of the church itself, participating in its privileges and contributing to its support. A church without young is like a forest without birds, a night without stars, or a June without roses.

He has nothing against special societies, if they do not take the place of the church itself, in the life of the young people. He pointed out the danger of excessive specialization in a very forceful manner, and not without a touch of humor. He advocated family sittings in church, where the saint of the family sat at one end of the pew, and the saintess at the other end with all the little saints and saintesses in between, and he also advocated individual contributions, from every member of the family. He urged the need of looking upon contributing to missions as a privilege, and not as a duty. He advocated putting young blood into the steward and trustee bodies, but begged to be delivered from the church "run by the kids." There must be old men for counsel, but young men to carry on the work. We have plenty of advice, dead loads of it, but we need action. We need soldiers more than we need generals.

The history of heroes has always been the history of the young. Youth with its courage, restless ambition, the power of initiative, the power of making friends readily, of destroying caste and class distinction, which ruin every church they enter into, of doing things; these are the qualities which the church and the world demand. He spoke of the young men who have made the world's history, in both the arts of war and peace.

The young people must take part in all the activities of the church or they will be unable to carry on its work, and the church needs them. It was a Young Man who saved the world. It was a young boy that wore the crown of thorns and it was a young man's heart with impulses of love that broke at the touch of the spear. Your life was bought by this Young Man's life.

Nothing has ever equalled it. Nothing can ever surpass it.

RUMOR THAT HE BURNED THE DOG

The local members of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals are at present at work on a case that is apt to cause a sensation, as a prominent young business man of this city is involved.

It seems that this man had a dog that he got tired of keeping so he gave it to a friend. A few days later the dog returned. The next time he gave it to another friend and again the animal came back. This time the man lost his temper, which is noted for its peppery qualities, and he said he would fix Mr. Dog so he would not return again.

It is claimed by the neighbors that he took the animal to a local manufacturing plant, and opening the doors of the furnace, where there was a furious fire burning, he threw the animal in and closed the door.

The story is spreading like wild-fire and the authorities are quietly at work on the case.

CONTRACT WAS LET

Bowling Green Man Will Sink Well For

YPSI DEVELOPMENT CO.

Price Is to Be $3500 and Well Is To Go Down 2540 Feet

The Ypsilanti Development Co. held the most important meeting in its history last evening in the parlors of the Occidental hotel, and what took place at that meeting is of great importance to the welfare of Ypsilanti.

The board of directors voted to let the contract for the sinking of the first well to H. E. Marsh of Bowling Green, who is a parceller oil and gas man. He is to receive $3,500 for the job and the well is to go down 2,540 feet. He furnished a bond signed by the Bankers' Surety Co. of Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Marsh will furnish all the machinery and timbers, while the company will furnish the casing. The first well will be sunk on the Cremer farm south of the city.

The board also voted to pay the first dividend on the Development stock in Banner Oil stock, and thirty shares of the latter will be given for every one share in the Development Co.

Reimburse Sugar Beet Raisers.

Corunna, Mich., Aug. 31.—Out of a total of 406 votes cast, the proposition to bond Corunna for $12,000 was carried at a special election Tuesday afternoon by a majority of 94. The money raised on the bonds will be used to reimburse the business men who under the name of the Corunna Beet Co. raised sugar beets for the Owosso factory last year and lost quite heavily. The company put up the argument that its action in raising the beets secured Owosso's vote for the new $100,000 courthouse now being erected in this city.

Phone War Imminent.

Marshall, Mich., Aug. 31.—Since the Marshall Telephone Co. has been in existence here the Bell exchange has done but one-tenth of the business it previously did, and practically nothing but long distance work at that. The Bell superintendent at Detroit has sent R. L. Trewin here to solicit and he expects to get 200 new subscribers in three months. Rates will be cut and other inducements offered. The rates of the local company at present are $3 annually for residences and $18 for business houses. It is expected a merry war will be waged.

Is Penfield at It Again?

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 29.—John Penfield, the 69-year-old horse thief who escaped from the prison Friday night, has been traced as far as Rives, where Saturday night a horse was stolen from John Losey. There is no further clue, except that a horse is said to have been found loose near Albion.

Ground Beneath Car Wheels.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 29.—Louis Ducq, a tailor, aged 35 years, attempted to board a rapidly-moving special car bound for Detroit, after attending some festivities at Grosse Pointe, early Sunday morning and was hurled beneath the wheels and literally ground to pieces. He died shortly after.

More Practical.

"I would give the world to make you happy," said the romantic young man. "Never mind about the world," said the level headed lass; "just you make sure of $25 a week, with reasonable prospects of promotion."—San Francisco Examiner.

JUMPED OFF A STEAMER.

Tragedy Occurred Off Shore of Detroit's Beautiful Belle Isle.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31.—Several passengers on the hurricane deck of the steamer Tashmoo reported having seen a woman jump overboard as the boat was off Belle Isle returning to Detroit last night.

She was seated in the stern of the steamer in company with a man, and the other passengers said the couple were quarreling, when without a word of warning and before anybody could prevent her, she leaped into the river and was not seen again.

A black hat, black walking jacket and purse, apparently the property of the woman, were found on the deck. The purse contained the name of Florence B. Edwards. The hat and jacket were turned over to the steward of the steamer, but the purse failed to reach him.

Capt. Baker of the Tashmoo was not apprised of the supposed suicide and knew nothing of it until he came down on deck after the boat arrived at her Griswold street dock.

Cleaning Out Sporting Joints.

Bessemer, Mich., Aug. 31.—Governor La Follette of Wisconsin is after the "sporting" gang at Hurley, across the Montreal river from Ironwood, and that nest of infamy is at last in a fair way of being purged of its open defiance of all decency and shame these many years. Prosecuting Attorney Foster and Sheriff Sealey are under charges of "standing in" with the various gambling and other resorts; testimony as to these charges has been taken during the week. A startling condition of affairs is brought out. Governor Luce, away back in the '80s, made a similar clean-out on this side of the Montreal and this is what drove the whole sporting gang across that stream into Wisconsin, where it has nested ever since.

Is a Philippine Scout.

Constantine, Mich., Aug. 31.—Lieut. H. M. Joss of the Philippine scouts, a Constantine young man, is visiting friends here. Lieut. Joss was graduated at the Orchard Lake military academy in 1889. His company is part of a battalion composed of Tagalogs, Maccabebes, Visayans and Ilocanos, and he says they make first rate soldiers and are satisfied with their pay and treatment. His company garrisons five towns, with headquarters at Niac, province of Cavite, and their duties are to protect Filipinos from small bands of guerrillas.

Dedicate New Courthouse.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 31.—One of the finest court houses in Michigan will be dedicated here next Monday. The building costs about $200,000. It is 156 feet long by 80 feet wide, built of Portage red stone and floors in the corridors are of mosaic tile, while the office floors are covered with cork carpet. All the furniture throughout is finished in mahogany, the cost of which was $50,000.

Burglars Ransacked the House.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31.—Burglars broke into the residence of Dr. Alexander Walter, 1136 Third avenue, the other night and secured $375 in cash and a quantity of silverware and clothing. They visited nearly every room in the house, ransacking drawers and chests, and leaving everything in chaotic mass on the floor.

Bliss to Parole Bennett.

Bay City, Mich., Aug. 31.—Governor Bliss is expected shortly to parole Edwin T. Bennett, former politician and newspaper owner and editor, who was sentenced to seven years in Jackson for manslaughter in connection with the death of Agnes Eberstein. The prison board recommended Bennett's parole Sept. 23.

Died While Playing Flinch.

Grand Haven, Mich., Aug. 31.—Francis B. Little, aged 77, hailing from Chicago, where he was a retired lumberman, is dead at Highland Park, where he had been stopping several days. Little was engaged in a game of flinch with a party of friends in his cottage when he dropped dead from heart disease.

Lord Minto at Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 31.—Lord and Lady Minto were the guests of the Canadian Soo Tuesday, and a big crowd of citizens turned out to receive them. Speeches were made by prominent citizens. Lord Minto is making a farewell trip before giving up his seat as governor-general, and will visit the entire Dominion.

Lunatic Chased Senator Clark.

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 31.—United States Senator W. A. Clark was attacked here by an insane man, known on the streets as Joe Peg, who thought the senator had been breaking the game laws and was carrying a grouse in his pocket and who threatened to take the senator's life. Peg followed Senator Clark several blocks, persistently calling upon him to hand over the grouse. Senator Clark ran panting into the lobby of the Florence hotel and demanded protection. He was sure that Peg had a gun, for several times the latter had made motions to pull it and threatened to shoot unless the senator would give up his game bird. Several persons sprang to his assistance and the insane man was overpowered.
